04.05.2024 Whistleblower document and declaration for Lifeline, (Emergency disclosure),

Summary: Barran Dodger, previously known as Dr. Rich McLean, has submitted an urgent whistleblower disclosure to Lifeline, seeking immediate advocacy and intervention to address his crisis involving financial instability, inadequate housing, and serious systemic corruption. Barran emphasizes his history as a survivor of a suicide attempt, underscoring the severe impact of financial distress and political manipulation on his mental health. He claims his plight has been aggravated by widespread institutional complicity that includes denial of essential supports such as those from the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS), despite his clear eligibility.

In his comprehensive letter, Barran details multiple violations including human rights abuses, financial exploitation, legal and institutional negligence, and whistleblower retaliation. He accuses various entities, including government agencies, former partners, and legal professionals, of a coordinated effort to undermine his safety, welfare, and dignity. Barran stresses that these issues not only represent a profound personal emergency but also expose broader systemic failures that threaten public trust and the welfare of other vulnerable individuals.

He urges Lifeline to engage directly with relevant authorities to secure necessary resources for him and to use his situation as a case study to promote public awareness and institutional reform. Barran highlights the risk of Lifeline's potential complicity through inaction and frames his request as aligned with Lifeline's mission to support mental health and prevent harm. He expresses readiness to cooperate fully to facilitate this advocacy, hoping for a positive response that could set a precedent for meaningful systemic change.

This is the short version:

Subject: Urgent Plea for Assistance and Advocacy

Dear Lifeline Management and Advocacy Team,

As I write this letter on May 4, 2024, I find myself in a state of profound crisis, grappling with issues of financial instability, inadequate housing, and systemic corruption. My name is Barran Dodger, formerly known as Dr. Rich McLean, and I am reaching out to Lifeline in desperation, seeking immediate advocacy and intervention to address my dire circumstances.

I am no stranger to adversity, having survived a suicide attempt in the past—a testament to the severe impact that financial distress and political manipulation can have on one's mental health. Today, I am facing homelessness and destitution, with my basic human rights systematically stripped away.

The Australian Government has targeted me as a scapegoat, subjecting me to relentless persecution and manipulation. Despite my clear eligibility, I have been denied essential support from the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS), leaving me without access to crucial resources and exacerbating my vulnerability.

In my whistleblower disclosure to Lifeline, I have outlined multiple violations, including human rights abuses, financial exploitation, legal negligence, and whistleblower retaliation. Powerful individuals and institutions, including government agencies, former partners, and legal professionals, have colluded to undermine my safety, welfare, and dignity.

I implore Lifeline to intervene urgently on my behalf, engaging directly with relevant authorities to secure the resources I need for survival. Additionally, I urge Lifeline to use my case as a catalyst for public awareness and institutional reform, highlighting the systemic failures that threaten the welfare of vulnerable individuals like myself.

The risk of inaction is dire. Without Lifeline's advocacy, I fear for my safety, dignity, and very existence. I stand ready to cooperate fully and provide any further information required to facilitate this advocacy.

Thank you for your attention to this urgent matter.

Sincerely,
Barran Dodger

01.05.2024 : Whistleblower document for Lifeline urging imminent action,

Subject: Urgent Request for Advocacy and Intervention in Crisis and Corruption: My Urgent Whistleblower Disclosure on Matters Posing Imminent Risk to Personal Welfare Safety and life as documented by the Federal Court as the very hight of hypocrisy.

Dear Lifeline Management and Advocacy Team,

I am publishing this for transparency and accountability and am reaching out to you not just as a service user, but as a fellow advocate deeply committed to the cause of suicide prevention. My situation underscores the dire effects of financial instability and inadequate housing on mental health, two pivotal areas you recognize as primary contributors to mental health crises and suicidal behavior. Given Lifeline's esteemed commitment to supporting individuals in crisis, I urge you to act decisively in my case, which presents not only a profound personal emergency but also highlights systemic issues within our social and healthcare systems. This is a whistleblower document and it demands accountability I have not been able to receive anywhere in the country, systemically either sociopolitically or at any government agency or organization, including my entire family and friends, in an absurd manipulation of public office protecting my former fiancé and embroiling even the prime minister himself.

**Background:****

From the narrative you provided, Dr. Rich McLean describes a complex and severe situation involving multiple forms of personal and systemic abuse. The serious breaches he outlines encompass a range of issues, including but not limited to:

- **Violation of Human Rights and Discrimination**: Dr. McLean alleges serious human rights violations, including discrimination based on disability, sexual orientation, and mental health status. He describes being marginalized and stigmatized, which is compounded by systemic failures to acknowledge or rectify these issues.
- **Financial Abuse and Exploitation**: He claims to have been subjected to financial exploitation and control by former partners and other individuals, which have left him in poverty and financial distress. The narrative suggests a systematic attempt to strip him of financial resources and legal recourse.
- **Legal and Institutional Negligence**: According to Dr. McLean, numerous legal bodies and institutions (including courts, healthcare providers, and government agencies) have failed to protect his rights or investigate his claims adequately. This includes allegations of cover-ups and corruption, as well as failures in the legal system that have prevented him from obtaining justice or compensation.
- **Surveillance, Harassment, and Intimidation**: He reports being subjected to constant surveillance, harassment, and intimidation. This includes psychological torment through noise and insults, physical attacks, and more subtle forms of coercion and control.
- **Whistleblower Retaliation**: Dr. McLean identifies himself as a whistleblower who has been silenced and punished for exposing wrongdoing within various organizations. His attempts to report crimes and corruption have been systematically ignored or suppressed, contributing to his current plight.
- **Access to Healthcare and Basic Needs**: There is a recurring theme of denied access to essential services, including healthcare, which is critical given his cognitive impairments and overall health condition. His situation is described as dire, with basic needs such as housing, food, and medical care being unmet.
- **Conspiracy and Cover-Up**: The narrative suggests a broad and deep conspiracy involving multiple levels of government and private individuals aimed at discrediting, isolating, and harming him. This includes manipulation of legal processes and public records, financial systems, and social services.

These breaches collectively suggest systemic failures across multiple sectors, including government, legal, financial, and social services, leading to severe personal consequences for Dr. McLean. His story underscores the importance of advocacy and intervention to address such profound violations of rights and justice.

From Dr. Rich McLean's detailed account, it appears that the serious breaches he alleges are committed by a combination of individuals and systemic entities, which include but are not limited to:

1. Stefan Iasonidis: Dr. McLean's former partner, who he alleges not only subjected him to financial abuse and control but also exploited personal relationships to further isolate and damage Dr. McLean's financial and social standing.
2. Russell Ball: A lawyer who, according to Dr. McLean, has used his position and connections within the government and legal systems to block Dr. McLean's access to legal recourse, manipulate evidence, and silence his complaints.
3. Australian Government Agencies and the Legal System: Dr. McLean claims widespread complicity and corruption within various government agencies, including health services, legal bodies, and law enforcement, which have systematically denied him justice and basic human rights. This includes ignoring his whistleblower complaints and mishandling or dismissing his legal cases and claims for compensation.
4. Healthcare Institutions: He points to failures in the healthcare system to provide necessary care and the compounding harm caused by medical malpractice, which were not appropriately addressed or compensated.
5. Media and Public Forums: Dr. McLean alleges that media outlets and public forums have played a role in character assassination and spreading misinformation about him, contributing to public misperceptions and stigmatization.

I like the earth.

I want to stay here. But I have no home.

That is not the result of any character flaw I possess or weakness, but a malicious conspiracy.

Everyone deserves a home and the Australian government ratified the UN human rights charter of disabled persons in 2008 but I have been without stable accommodation for four years since I was revived from death and the government is in breach of the charter.

My situation is dire, and I fear for my safety, dignity, and very existence. I'm Dr. Rich McLean, an Australian queer artist, author, activist, advocate, and academic. Currently, I find myself homeless, devoid of financial resources, and besieged by a plethora of challenges. Worse still, it appears that I've become a target of the Australian Government, inexplicably made a scapegoat in a series of distressing events.

Compounding my struggles, I grapple with a cognitive brain impairment that severely impedes my memory and planning abilities. As a targeted individual, I've witnessed my human rights steadily erode away. Access to adequate healthcare is a rarity, and financial destitution has become my constant companion. I've faced setbacks in legal battles, lost settlements, been denied income assistance, and encountered refusals for settlements with various entities, including hospitals and insurance providers.

Furthermore, I've been silenced as a whistleblower, unable to report crimes to the authorities. My existence is shadowed by relentless electronic surveillance, accompanied by a barrage of subsonic noise laden with derogatory insults—a form of harassment meticulously crafted to evade evidence collection. Once known within niche circles for my work, I now find myself relegated to the margins of society, abandoned by former allies and exploited by unseen forces.

I'm penning this urgent plea on September 28, 2023, stripped of the luxuries of home, financial security, legal representation, or advocacy. My assets have been seized, I'm ostracized from government agencies, and I've endured a litany of abuses—from childhood trauma to incarceration and threats on my life.

The orchestrated campaign of poverty and financial abuse persists, pushing me perilously close to the brink of physical and emotional collapse. Family violence compounds my despair, yet government agencies refuse to acknowledge the validity of my relationships or the injustices I've suffered.

My attempts to seek redress through official channels have been met with indifference or outright hostility. I've been blacklisted from meaningful intervention by governmental bodies, with all avenues of domestic advocacy thoroughly exhausted. Even reaching out to the highest echelons of power has yielded nothing but hollow referrals and bureaucratic runarounds.

I live under the coercive financial control of my former partner, Stefan Iasonidis, a millionaire who callously abandoned me to destitution. Powerful individuals like Russell Ball, a prominent lawyer with political influence, have colluded to silence me and perpetuate my suffering.

The litany of injustices I've endured—victimization, gaslighting, legal persecution, and even an attempted murder—culminated in a failed suicide attempt in 2021. Yet, the subsequent whitewashing of this incident by authorities only serves to underscore the systemic corruption that plagues our society.

Today, I stand on the precipice of homelessness, my voice stifled, my pleas for justice falling on deaf ears. I implore your organization to intervene urgently, whether by providing shelter, financial assistance, legal representation, or advocacy. My dog and I cling to the hope that somewhere, someone will extend a helping hand, restoring our faith in humanity and granting us the chance to rebuild our shattered lives

From Dr. Rich McLean's detailed narrative, the series of events and issues he describes have been unfolding over several years, but several key points indicate the specific timing of certain developments:

1. Date of Writing: Dr. McLean notes he was writing on "28.09.2023". This date is significant as it provides a context for his current circumstances, indicating that the situation was ongoing as of late September 2023.
2. Timeline of Financial and Legal Struggles: While Dr. McLean does not specify the exact start dates of his financial and legal issues, he mentions several key events, such as losing settlements, legal cases, and work cover, which suggest a prolonged period of financial hardship and legal battles. These issues are described as having worsened over time, with no clear resolution in sight as of the writing date.
3. Moment of Realization: Dr. McLean's realization of the serious nature of his situation and the broader conspiracies against him seems to have developed gradually as his rights were eroded and as he faced repeated rejections from various bodies and institutions. His awareness of being targeted and scapegoated has likely intensified in the lead-up to his writing in September 2023, especially as he mentions planning to be homeless within a week of the noted date.
4. Whistleblower Repercussions and Surveillance: He discusses being a whistleblower and facing repercussions for this, including being unable to report further crimes to the police. The realization of being under surveillance and experiencing harassment appears to have been an ongoing issue, escalating before September 2023.
5. Specific Events: Dr. McLean references an incident in February 2021 that he describes as a forced suicide attempt, suggesting a particularly acute phase of his victimization around that time. This event seems to have been a critical moment when he became painfully aware of the depth and severity of the persecution he faced.

In summary, while Dr. McLean's struggles encompass a broad timeline over several years, the most acute awareness and the description of his situation as dire and critical are placed around the date he provided, 28.09.2023, with significant events and realizations becoming especially pronounced in the years and months leading up to this point. His narrative highlights a prolonged period of escalating issues culminating in the extreme hardships he detailed in his plea for help in late 2023.

The "serious breach" in this context refers to a combined systemic failure across multiple sectors—legal, healthcare, financial, social, and governmental—that has led to significant personal and professional harm to Dr. McLean. These breaches involve violations of basic human rights, abuse of power, corruption, and a lack of accountability that have compounded his vulnerabilities, particularly considering his cognitive impairments and marginalized status as a queer individual with mental health issues.

Dr. Rich McLean describes his troubling experiences primarily occurring within Australia. The details suggest that the issues are widespread, affecting multiple aspects of his life across various locations and involving different sectors, including legal, healthcare, governmental, and social systems within the country. Here are some specific aspects related to location based on the information provided:

1. General Location: The experiences narrated by Dr. McLean are set in Australia, where he faces systemic issues, including discrimination, financial ruin, legal troubles, and personal safety concerns.
2. Healthcare and Legal Encounters: Dr. McLean refers to interactions with hospitals and legal institutions, which likely occurred at specific but unnamed locations within Australia. He mentions experiences with malpractice and legal dismissals that would have taken place in various healthcare facilities and courts.
3. Governmental and Institutional Settings: His dealings with national bodies like the NDIS (National Disability Insurance Scheme) and the Australian Human Rights Commission point to engagements at institutional levels, potentially at their respective offices or through formal communication channels.
4. Home and Public Spaces: Dr. McLean is currently homeless, implying that some of his challenges are happening in public spaces or temporary shelters. His reference to electronic surveillance and harassment could be occurring in various transient locations as he moves around.

5. Personal Security Concerns: The issues of being surveilled, threatened, and experiencing violence could be occurring in both private and public spheres, emphasizing the pervasive nature of his safety concerns throughout his environment.
6. Communications with High-Level Officials: His attempts to reach out to government officials, including writing to the Prime Minister and interactions with the attorney general's office, suggest dealings that reach into the highest levels of government, although these communications might happen remotely (via letters, emails, phone calls).

In summary, Dr. McLean's experiences are geographically tied to Australia but cover a broad spectrum of locations within the country, from institutional settings to public and transient living conditions, reflecting a nationwide scope of his serious and complex allegations.

My whistleblower declaration satisfies Lifeline Australia's criteria for disclosing matters of concern in several ways:

1. Fraud, deceit, or dishonesty: I have reasonable grounds to suspect deceit and greed by powerful individuals, indicating potential fraudulent behavior.
2. Wrongful or questionable accounting or auditing practices: I've experienced whitewashing and further abuse after a tragedy, suggesting possible questionable accounting or auditing practices within Lifeline Australia.
3. Corrupt behavior: I imply corruption within the Federal government and potentially within Lifeline Australia by mentioning whitewashing, persecution, and targeted abuse.
4. Illegal or unlawful conduct such as violence, theft, or property damage: I've been targeted for violent attacks and subjected to harmful behavior, indicating potential illegal conduct.
5. Bribery: Though not explicitly mentioned, if there are indications of bribery within Lifeline Australia or involving its employees or officers, it would fall under this category.
6. Unethical behavior: I've been targeted for poverty, vilification, and surveillance, which may indicate unethical behavior by individuals or entities associated with Lifeline Australia.
7. Other serious misconduct detrimental to the interests of Lifeline Australia: My declaration of being persecuted and harmed, potentially due to corruption and whitewashing, reflects serious misconduct that could harm Lifeline Australia's reputation and interests.
8. Legal or regulatory non-compliance: I've been targeted by the Australian government for various offenses and subjected to further abuse despite legal protections, suggesting potential non-compliance with laws and regulations.
9. Conduct representing a danger to the public or financial system: The targeted abuse and persecution I describe could pose a danger to both the public and the financial system if left unchecked.
10. Other misconduct, wrongdoing, or improper state of affairs: My overall narrative indicates a broader pattern of misconduct, wrongdoing, and improper circumstances within Lifeline Australia and potentially involving external entities.

I am a survivor of suicide, having attempted to end my life due to overwhelming financial strain political manipulation of government agencies by powerful perpetrators of enormous power and wealth and privilege and loss of stable housing—issues that you are well aware significantly heighten the risk of suicide. My situation has been exacerbated by what I believe to be institutional complicity, resulting in my financial and social alienation. This includes being denied necessary supports from the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) despite clear eligibility and need, specifically regarding supported living arrangements that would provide stability and significantly reduce my risk of further mental health deterioration.

Institutional Complicity

The denial and subsequent neglect I have faced involve a range of actors from various sectors, including housing, legal, financial, and government bodies. This network of neglect has not only jeopardized my physical safety and mental well-being but has pushed me to the margins of society, where my voice and needs are systematically disregarded.

Why Lifeline's Advocacy is Crucial

As an organization that stands at the forefront of suicide prevention, Lifeline has both the capacity and moral obligation to advocate for individuals like myself. Your influence can be instrumental in breaking the cycle of neglect and advocating for systemic changes that ensure individuals at risk receive the support they need to live safely and with dignity. Your advocacy could also drive greater awareness and encourage public and private entities to reconsider and reform how they interact with vulnerable populations.

**Proposal for Action:****

1. **Direct Advocacy:** I request Lifeline to intervene directly on my behalf, engaging with relevant authorities and service providers to secure the immediate support and resources I require, namely stable housing and financial aid. This includes a meaningful response to the redaction of my prosperity over thirty years, starting imminently with a federal court document confirming my employee status with DSS, and addressing the continued whitewashing of my personal tragedy in my suicide attempt, which was deemed fatal. Lastly, it concerns the political manipulation by a powerful narcissist, Stefan Iasonidis, my former fiancé and ASIO employee, who has extraordinarily manipulated the entirety of the country and every family and friend to neglect to act in the space of a settlement he owes me regarding definitions of same-sex de facto relationships in this country.
2. **Public Awareness:** Utilize our collaboration as a case study to highlight the critical link between financial stability, housing, and mental health. This not only educates the public but also mobilizes them towards empathy and action, potentially preventing more crises.
3. **Institutional Engagement:** Challenge the complacency of institutions in their dealings with the vulnerable, advocating for policies that protect and empower rather than marginalize. Lifeline's voice could significantly influence policy changes and service enhancements.
4. **Support for Policy Reform:** Advocate for legislative and policy reforms that ensure mental health services and social supports are accessible and responsive to those in crisis, advocating for a system that is accountable and transparent.

**The Risk of Inaction:****

Should Lifeline choose not to act meaningfully in situations like mine, it risks being complicit in the same institutional neglect that underpins many mental health crises. The opportunity here is not only to change one life but to advocate for systemic reform that could save countless others.

That is why I am writing to formally lodge a whistleblower disclosure under the Whistleblower Protection Policy of Lifeline Australia. Given Lifeline's commitment to supporting mental health and preventing harm, I feel it is crucial to address the lack of action on issues that not only affect my personal health, welfare, safety, and life but also reflect a broader disregard for rights and safety by multiple institutions.

**Background and Context:****

My plight begins with a corruption complaint that was dismissed by the National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC), leading to a series of refusals and neglect from various bodies including the Ombudsman and the Office of the Prime Minister and Cabinet (OPMC), which rejected my Freedom of Information (FOI) request, deemed 'voluminous' and 'complex' by the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC). Furthermore, attempts to investigate threats and other serious accusations involving high-level officials have been systematically obstructed. My former partner, an agent of the Australian Security Intelligence Organisation (ASIO), under the leadership of David Irvine, further complicates matters due to personal ties and evident complicity in my ongoing exploitation and persecution.

**State and Federal Police Involvement:****

Both state and federal police agencies have seemingly coordinated to force my relocation outside my home state, ignoring my pleas for protection or investigation into serious threats against my life. Legal avenues have been obstructed, with Legal Aid refusing to acknowledge or support my claims, and the NDIS minister, Bill Shorten, purportedly being involved in what can only be described as an orchestrated campaign against my welfare.

**International and Media Engagement:****

Efforts to seek protection through international consulates in Australia and to draw public attention via media have been fruitless, leaving me isolated and without recourse. Notably, even human rights bodies such as the OHCHR have disregarded my reports, which detail a violation of human rights and civil liberties.

**Public Vilification and Professional Impact:****

As a direct result of these issues, my reputation has been severely damaged, leading to public vilification and the loss of my livelihood as an artist. This situation has been exacerbated by defamatory portrayals in media outlets, notably the Herald Sun, which have published unfounded allegations of instability.

**Request for Lifeline Australia's Intervention:****

I request that Lifeline Australia recognize the gravity of these issues and the potential complicity in overlooking such egregious violations of a person's fundamental rights. The imminent risk to my health, welfare, safety, and life necessitates immediate and decisive action. Lifeline Australia, as an institution dedicated to the preservation of mental health and the prevention of harm, holds a responsibility to intervene or escalate these concerns appropriately.

**Conclusion:****

The situation described not only undermines public trust in key governmental and societal institutions but also poses a direct threat to my personal safety and well-being. It is my hope that through this disclosure, Lifeline Australia will uphold its ethical obligations and assist in addressing these serious concerns in accordance with its policies and the moral standards it espouses.

My plight is a stark illustration of the urgent need for proactive intervention and systemic change. Lifeline's advocacy can be a powerful catalyst for delivering not just immediate aid to individuals like myself but also for driving long-term societal change that aligns with our shared goals of reducing suicide risk and enhancing mental health supports.

I am ready to cooperate fully and provide any further information required to facilitate this advocacy. Your action can light a beacon of hope for many who feel as lost as I do now. I look forward to your positive response and am hopeful for a collaboration that sets a precedent for meaningful change.

By framing my request around Lifeline's established mission and the tangible benefits of cause-related marketing, this approach highlights the mutual benefits of advocacy, not Jon.y for me who is in desperate need but for the broader community and for Lifeline's standing as a leader in mental health and suicide prevention.

There is another letter below: Please be aware that my brain injury and the profound torture and neglect I have endured lead to my confusion. I spent all day writing a letter to the owner of the hotel where I am temporarily staying for just one night bereft of anywhere or anyone I know who may be able to help. However, tomorrow I am then faced with the institutional complicity of being released to a corrupt NDIS provider, who is funded by the NDIS—an agency proven to be abusing and neglecting me in their protection of Iasonidis and the financial persecution of me. They evade all accountability such as the demand for accountability to the CEO that was utterly ignored on this website.

Furthermore, the NDIS Minister Bill Shorten himself has colluded with other public officials with police and law enforcement and the legal system to identify, locate, detain, and charge me. Despite being literally homeless after being driven out of the state of Victoria by the police who's purpose is to protect and serve the public, the magistrate issued a warrant for my arrest, after legal aid Victoria refused to acknowledge my issues and acted in order to facilitate not prevent the charges which was the catalyst for my excommunication from everything familiar to me in Victoria. I cannot return there. My letter below to the hotel management is evidence of this confusion and abuse, and it illustrates the utter desperation to preserve a literal place to exist free from literal violence before being cast aside to further neglect, abuse, and financial destruction that the NDIS prolongs and supports.

I am prepared to provide further information and evidence to support this disclosure and assist in any subsequent investigation. Thank you for your attention to this urgent matter.

Sincerely,

Barran Dodger, (The old Dr Rich Mclean).
